

PRACTICAL SUCCESS

June 4th, 2013

Fraser Law Building, 159

Professional Development Workshop

To support our membership and community, ISA-Canada and its sponsors are launching a new professional development workshop in 2013. This practical series of three workshops will engage new and emerging scholars with established scholars and experienced facilitators. Emphasis in these sessions will be on concrete strategies for success.

For Graduate Students, New and Experienced Professors!

How to Write A Lot 8am-9:30am

A module is for academics at all levels. Based on Paul Silvia's How to write a lot, this workshop provides tips and strategies on being more effective in writing. Each scholar is a writer, and this workshop presents strategies to overcome the barriers to writing in academia and provides practical tactics for improving productivity.

Managing Your Career 9:45am-11:15am

This module is developed for graduate students and new professors. It provides insights and proven success strategies for long-term success. This module covers:

- establishing research networks
- researching and publishing
- tenure and promotion

Mentoring Café 11:30am-1:30pm

Intended for professors and students at all levels, this mentoring café will offer a group session with several highly respected professors in this field. Heather Smith, Claire Turenne Sjolander, Mark Salter and David Black will facilitate small groups of interested participants.

(Lunch provided)

Facilitator: Françoise Moreau-Johnson has acted as coordinator of the Centre for Academic Leadership at the University of Ottawa since 2007. Françoise received the Award of Excellence for Staff in May 2011 for her innovative work in the university faculty community, providing career development support to 1200 regular faculty members.

RSVP: Registration is not required, but space is limited.
Please confirm your participation by May 30th to: leaders@uottawa.ca

Sponsored by ISA-Canada
Organized by Mark B. Salter

 uOttawa
Centre de leadership scolaire
Centre for Academic Leadership